The President of AGP, Chandra Mohan Patowary today launched the Party website - www.asomganaparishad.in - at its head office in Guwahati, with an objective to create awareness about the importance of regional Party in the political field.

The launching of the website has come at the time when the forthcoming Assam State Assembly election is due in the first half of next year, AGP president Chandra Mohan Patowary says that though the website might be of some help in the election for the party, the objective is not the forthcoming election., rather it has more deep and serious matters are related to it.

The party hopes that the website will help in creating awareness among the younger generation about the importance of any regional party in the political field and thus inviting support from the people. The website has put documents of Assam Agitation to educate those who were not born at that time, a agitation which is the backbone of the AGP, and thus rewriting all about the deep emotions of the people attached to the party.

The website also aims at reaching out to the people who are far away from the country, telling the people about the Aims and Objective of the Party, its work and the importance. In the state thus appealing their support too.

The website also includes discussions on important issues and inviting suggestions. Social networking site like face book, twitter are also available on the webpage. Besides press releases of the party will also be available in the website for the press people.
