Only an united Asom Gana Parishad will be able to refurbish the image of regionalism. For this the party top leaders must end the internal feud. This was more or less of what Hoomen Borgohain said at an AGP political convention in Guwahati on Tuesday.

In his opening speech, the noted critic and journalist said that the regional party still retains good image among the grassroot level and that the party leadership have been failing to take the advantage. He observed that the internal feud within the top leaders has made the party weak during the last ten years.

Borgohain said that this convention at the Machkhowa ITA Complex is the last opportunity for the party to refurbish its image and to save regional party from the brink of collapse.

Former Chief Minister and party president Prafulla Kumar Mahanta, former president Brindabon Goswami, president president Atul Bora and senior leader Thaneswar Boro also addressed the convention.

Noted intellectual Dr Hiren Gohain will open the second session at 10 in the morning on Wednesday while Kanaksen Deka will open the third and last session in the afternoon.
