It was a Black Thursday on October 30. Terrorists struck in Assam with as many nine blasts, mostly in Guwahati-the gateway to the north eastern India. The bombings that took the lives of more than 88 people has once again proved beyond doubt that the suspected Islamic Jehadi fundamentalists are going active in the region.

It is the deadliest ever terror attack on Assam the hunting and dwelling ground for growing Islamic fundamentalist the Bangladeshis posing a serious threat to the sovereignty and integrity of an independent country. The entire incident can be the warm up activities for the Jehadi forces towards the formation of the proposed Islamistan.

Assam is a state garlanded by international border. But it has not sealed these porous border portion. This has been the sole reason why and how its easy for these elements to sneak into Assam to destabilize the region. But will the recent serial be a final warning to the country's weakening internal security and the sovereignty and integrity of the country? The SMSes claiming responsibility by the little known Indian Mujaheed from the a Reliance number read as "We here by warn Assam and India for such incidents in future also".

If ISF (IM) existence and their hands in the serial blast has proved that these elements will further carry out its operations to ensure the dream of Islamistan a reality. Their first and foremost operation will be to destabilize the region with trouble, then to weaken the region's economy with fake currency in the absence of anything that can prevent infiltration from across the border. Moreover, it's the failure of our intelligence groups when techno savvy terrorists forces were organizing their terror activities.

Need of the hour is to restore peace and normalcy to bail out of the crisis. Let the border sealed to stop infiltration of these fatal forces from across the border. Terrorists are terrorists and they should be dealt with firmly.

Terrorisms knows no religion but however today Islam is a terror name, I believe at least few of you would agree. But will the prisoners of conscience awake?
