After B Barooah Cancer Hospital, yet another state-of-the-art hospital injects no less ray of hopes for thousands of cancer patients from the north eastern region. Union health minister JP Nadda opened the 20 bedded cancer hospital adjacent to the Gauhati Medical College Hospital at a function on Friday evening.

Nadda, in his speech said the centre will help the entire region provide best possible treatment for the cancer patients.

State health minister Himanta Biswa Sarma called it a memorable day in the state's health sector saying that the hospital will be of immense help for Assam and other north eastern states to curb cancer disease.

Earlier in the day, Nadda laid the corner stone of the Dhubri Medical College calling it a giant leap in the health sector. He said the Centre is committed to help the region get the modern healthcare facility.

On Saturday, Nadda is scheduled to lay the foundation stone of the proposed medical college in Nagaon.
