The Union Home ministry is dispatching a high level team to Assam's North Cachar hills to take stock of the railway broad gauge conversion projects which is crippled by the volatile law and order situation. The team is scheduled to visit some trouble spots of the hills district before submitting its report. According to information, the team will review the security aspects of the Lumding and Badarpur conversion projects which have come to a grinding halt at the height of murder and mayhem by the DHD(J) outfit.
