

Digital meter blast in Guwahati: no casualty

Comments 1

editor 22 March 2008 64995 views

The explosion of seven digital meters at a city apartment created panic among its residents in the city's Beltola area on Saturday. It all took place at around 11 in the morning at the Ranibagan Apartment Housing Society's Tarokeswar Block No 6. Initially a boy saw some sparks at a digital meter and told his father. His father Lokesh Agarwala came down with a fire extinguishing cylinder. But he saw the fire dispersed to six other meters. Some other residents also arrived with fire extinguishers and later on the fire was extinguished. On the other hand, after information the ASEB officials reached the apartment only an hour later. But they said blamed it all on the flawed wiring. Notably, the the Assam

State Electricity Board has been claiming that digital meters are safe and that there is nothing to be worried. This has once again proved that the digital meters run the risk of fire incident at any time.

editor

Please send your comments to editor@assamtimes.org

BY EDITOR

Witch hunting rerun in Chirang!

Police remand for Nagaon culprit

Candle lighting rally

ULFA condoles demise of SS Khaplang

Beef puts M'laya BJP in the red

ON THIS DAY

Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act notified

Sundaram to investigate SP EAC scuffle

Gold Rush for press club screening

Restore Chakma-Hajong rights: Civil body to government

Lafikul family unhappy with CBI for delay in probe
