A delegation of the Sanmilita Jatiya Abhibarton has arrived in Delhi on Saturday to call on prime minister Dr Manmohan Singh on Monday to clear the decks for holding talk between government and Ulfa. Before their date with the prime minister they are scheduled to hold with union home minister P Chidambaram along with a circle of political leaders. On the other hand, Assam chief minister Tarun Gogoi who is camping in the capital is helping the possible interlocutor P C Halder formulate a set of guidelines for the talk. Gogoi is also expected to participate in the meeting with the prime minister. Before leaving for Delhi on Saturday the chief convener Dr Gohain hoped the process to hold talk with the government would be expedited at the intervention of the prime minister.
