Indian Navy has launched a Publicity Drive in the North east to build up awareness amongst the students and youth about various career opportunities available in Navy. As a part of the Publicity Drive, an Awareness Programme was held at Handique Girls' College which was jointly organised in collaboration with the Career Guidance and Placement Cell of Handique Girls' College and APPOCCUS (Association of Past and Present Office Bearers of Cotton College Union Society). Lieutenant Commander Saumar Jyoti Bhuyan who was deputed to the North east for co-ordinating the Publicity Drive explained in detail about the various opportunities that exists for entry into the Naval Force. He gave many valuable tips and suggestions for developing the necessary skill and knowledge base for successful appearing in the recruitment drive conducted by Indian Navy. A large number of students including students from Cotton College took part in the Awareness Programme.

Nabajit Dutta, Convenor of the Career Guidance and Placement Cell of Handique Girls' College offered the vote of thanks and asked the students to circulate the information and knowledge acquired through the programme for the benefit of the youth of the region. Jagdish Dutta, General Secretary, APPOCCUS co-ordinated the programme. The awareness programme will be continued in several other places of the NE region.
