A Congress insider on request of anonymity said that the Congress is passive about addressing issues of the indigenous Muslim communities raised by the representative bodies from time to time.

On being asked if indigenous Muslim votes are a factor for the nearing Assembly Elections Hafizul Ahmed said that indigenous Muslim votes are an underrated factor. It is the linguistic Muslim Minority votes which cumulatively weigh and now with the representation of several indigenous Muslim candidates by the All India United Democratic Front the poll war of the approaching Assembly Elections is worth a watch. Without Constitutional Recognition and Safeguard of the indigenous Muslim communities no programs for all sphere development can be strategized. It is only after when Constitutional Recognition and Safeguard has been accorded that proper electoral representation of the indigenous Muslim communities can be furthered in a proper manner he stated.

In a striking attempt this poll season the Asom Gana Parishad projected Moidul Islam Bora, Nurul Hussain and Enamul Haq thereby harboring indigenous Muslim representation, the Bharatiya Janata Party offered 1 and the All India United Democratic Front finalized its candidature listing about 10 indigenous Muslims.

We shall extend our support base to enable the indigenous Muslim candidates succeed vis-à-vis the Congress which found no one suitable the Press Brief concluded.
