The five rebel groups that coalesced to form the United National \(taxonomy/term/1874\) Liberation Front of Western South East Asia (UNLFW \(taxonomy/term/2137\)) today released a photograph of arms seized during a gun battle with security forces early this month.

UNLFW \(taxonomy/term/2137\), an umbrella outfit comprising NSCN(K) at the prime along with ULFA \(taxonomy/term/124\)(I), NDFB(S), PLA \(taxonomy/term/2139\) and KLO spread across transnational boundaries was formed on April 17 with an attempt to struggle unifiedly to liberate their ancestral homes.

On May 3, seven Assam Rifles (/taxonomy/term/77) men of the 23rd battalion and one belonging to the 164th battalion of the Territorial Army (/taxonomy/term/2140) died when they came upon an attack by UNLFW (/taxonomy/term/2137). The security forces were on their way to collect water from a source about 4 kilometers from their encampment between Changlangshu and Tobu in the district of Mon in Nagaland (/taxonomy/term/1597) when they were ambushed upon with detonated IEDs and assault rifle shots.

Two UNLFW (/taxonomy/term/2137) members also succumbed under retaliatory fire by the security forces.

The attack comes in close after the Modi led NDA government adopted a policy of "no talk with militant outfits indulging in violence and only action on them."

UNLFW (/taxonomy/term/2137) seized 5 Polish made Tantal assault rifles (/taxonomy/term/2141) (3 PAKMS wz.88, 1 PAKMS wz.80, and 1 PAKMS wz.90) identical to the Soviet made Automatic Kalashnikov series and 1 Indian made INSAS rifle, totaling (/taxonomy/term/2015)6 (/taxonomy/term/2015) assault rifles (/taxonomy/term/2141) along with a wireless set from the slain security forces.

This is UNFW'S first and successful attack on security forces after its formation. To express its accomplishment following its ambush titled, "Operation Changlangshu (/taxonomy/term/2142)", UNFW shared an image displaying the (/taxonomy/term/2015)6 (/taxonomy/term/2015) seized assault rifles (/taxonomy/term/2141).
