One killed in Police firing today at the blast spot where the angry public came out on the city roads in demand of justice to the deaths of the blasts.

Police who have been claiming the situation is under control lost its temperament while controlling mob who came out on the roads to seek justice. The security forces who have been on the regular duty on the GS road and was monitoring the spot after the BJP leader has visited the spot, encountered a mob in fast.

"We are just patrolling the cite while a mob come out of the Christian Basti area and become ferocious and throw stones on us", said a CRPF man. The firing wounded a young man who has been rapidly taken to the International Hospital nearby.

"People of Assam has no security. All these security officer are the culprits who let the terrorist to bring the explosives and let us die. We simply need justice and the Govt. and the administration is liable for the justice", alleged Hemen Kalita, an agitator.

"The police who were on duty fired on the public and it touched one man who might be dead. Who will save us, at one end there is the terrorist and the other the security forces who thinks all of us terrorist. We are normal civilianns who needs justice. Govt. has always said about the compensations and sooner they also avoid it delicately. Last day more than 80 people were killed and the toll is till rising and can only money save their existence? Who will look after their dreams and family? the Government or the Terrorist? both needs their own things to be done. We request the constitutional heads that this is the high time. We are now ready to die for justice because life here has no value whether in political nor in so called human oorganisations", expressed the crowd who are a p[art of the mob.

The security officials ignored the firing incident and said its a part of controlling the situation. Sooner the whole Ganeshguri area and the GS Road has been declared an indefinite curfew after the firing.
