Guwahati, December 21: A panel discussion on the "Violation of Human Rights Laws Against Hindus and Other Religious Minorities" was held today at the Bishnu Nirmal Trust Auditorium, Latasil, Guwahati. The event was organized under the banner of Adhivakta Parishad Assam Prant.

The discussion featured notable speakers, including Justice Ajit Borthakur, former Judge of the Guwahati High Court and current member of the Assam Human Rights Commission. Justice Borthakur raised concerns about the status of rights guaranteed under the Constitution of Bangladesh and questioned their protection for all citizens.

Former IPS and DGP (OSD) M Mohan Raj provided historical context, comparing the atrocities against Hindus in Bangladesh to a "holocaust." He stressed the urgent need to address these issues.

Adhivakta Parishad Assam Prant. General Secretary, Kuldeep Baishya, emphasized that the discussion was not just an academic exercise but a call to action to protect lives, humanity, and human rights in Bangladesh. He also highlighted international concern, noting statements from global leaders, including Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi, US President Elect Donald J Trump, US Congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard, and UK Parliamentarian Barry Gardiner, regarding the ongoing violence against Hindus and religious minorities in Bangladesh.

The program, moderated by Advocate Sikha Bhattacharjya, Office Secretary of Adhivakta Parishad, concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Advocate Bankim Sarma, Vice President of the organization. S.C. Keyal, Zonal Secretary of Akhil Bhartiya Adhivakta Parishad, was also present.

The event served as a platform to voice solidarity against human rights violations and advocate for justice and equality for all citizens in Bangladesh.
