The down-to-dusk Assam bandh called by the banned United Liberation Front of Asom (ULFA) passed off peacefully in Nagaon district. The bandh was called in protest against the arrest of two of its top leaders, Sasha Choudhury and Chitraban Hajarika.

The 12 - hour bandh paralysed the normal life in and around Nagaon. Shops and business establishments, educational and financial institutions and govt. and central government offices including post offices and the BSNL offices remained closed. Except few private vehicles and rickshaws, vehicular traffic remained off the road. No untoward incident was reported from any part of the district.
