Guwahati: As a part of Assam government's multi-pronged approach to negotiate with the Covid-19 pandemic, State chief minister Sarbananda Sonowal dialed several eminent personalities and took stock of their well-beings. During the telephonic discussions with senior academicians, sports organizers, social activists, journalists etc, Sonowal apprised them of the government's ploy to beat the viral infection of novel corona virus.

Besides protecting and saving precious lives from the infection, Sonowal informed them about the government's effort to create a robust infrastructure of healthcare facilities to reach out to the people who are falling prey to the deadly virus. He also added that the government was working assiduously to strengthen the economy which has been badly hit by the pandemic.

Sonowal, dialing to former B Borooah College vice-principal Dr Jagadindra Roy Chowdhury, former Pandu College professor Bhabani Prasad Upadhaya, former Parliamentarian Dr Arun Sharma, former Guwahati Press Club secretary Nava Thakuria, senior journalist Rupam Baruah, former North Korea ambassador Binanda Kumar Gogoi, veteran businessman Krishna Kumar Goenka, sports organizer Manoj Mohanty, social activists Gauranga Roy, Dilip Basu and Swapnanil Madhukar, expected their initiatives for transferring enthusiasm and positivity to different sections in the society.
