Yet another ULFA top leader has been arrested in Bangladesh. According to reports, top gun of the insurgent outfit and close aide of Commander in Chief Paresh Baruah. Antu Chaodang has arrested in Bangladesh. He was arrested by BDR personnel from near Dhaka four very recently on his way back to Bangladesh from a base in Myanmar.

The banned ULFA has claimed that two of its leaders were picked up by Indian intelligence agencies in Bangladesh. In an e-mail to Assamtimes, signed by ULFA publicity secretary Arunudoy Dohotia, the outfit said 'captain' Antu Saudang and 'second lieutenant' Pradeep Chetia were picked up on December 13 and their whereabouts were not known since then.

The e-mail, signed by ULFA publicity secretary Arunudoy Dohotia, however, denied reports that Saudang's wife was also detained by the security agencies in the neighbouring country. Saudang is the third top leader to be on the run after 'c-in-c' Paresh Barua and another commander of the armed wing Jibon Moran
