Violence still refuses to die down in North Cachar hills district and instead it is snowbaling into an ethnic frenzy. Two days after some unidentified miscreants set on fire a Dimasa village some other miscreants on Monday burnt down at least 14 houses at a remote village of Zemi Naga people named Guilung in the hills district.

These orgy of violence took place a day after Assam Chief Minister Tarun Gogoi ordered joint operation by police, army and other law enforcing agencies to deal with the situation.
